Professional Summary

Experienced events and project manager with over eight years of experience delivering impactful live, hybrid, and digital events across Australia. I bring a calm, organised, and people-first approach to managing complex logistics, budgets, and stakeholder relationships — both on-site and remotely.

Currently working across digital product delivery and project management, I thrive in roles that blend structure with creativity, where fan, client, or user experience is central. I'm comfortable managing end-to-end delivery — from ticketing to team coordination — and I regularly use AI and digital tools to streamline operations and reporting. I believe in strong collaboration, clear communication, and building events that people remember for the right reasons.
